STREET BATTLES FOUGHT BETWEEN STRIKERS AND POLICE AT BUENOS AYRES—Many Persons Are Killed

Soldiers and Police Ordered by Government to Shoot Whenever Necessary and to Stop Outbreaks of Violence Regardless of Acts of Aggression

BUENOS AYRES, Jan. 10.—(By the A.P.)—At 11 o'clock tonight, battles between strikers and police were raging in all parts of the city. There was a particularly sharp conflict in the district of the post office. If the fighting spreads in this district, it probably will be necessary to close the cable office.

Several attempts were made tonight to capture the first district police station, one block from the American consulate. It is impossible to give any calculations of the number of casualties.

The Daily Poem

Let them who have failed take courage.

Though the enemy seems to have won.

Though his ranks are strong, if he be not.

The battle is not yet over.

And the triumph is still to come.

The darkest hour of night.

No question is ever settled.

Until it is settled right.

— Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

O man bowed down with labor!

O woman young and old!

O heart oppressed in the stiller breast

And crushed by the weight of grief!

Keep on with your weary battle!

And the triumph is still to come.

No question is ever settled.

Until it is settled right.

— Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

AUTO DRIVERS MUST GET LICENSES BEFORE JAN. 12TH

On and after Monday, January 12th, any chauffeur or owner of an automobile found operating his car on the public thoroughfares without a 1936 license will be prosecuted according to law. This is the information made by the chief of police, who has given explicit instructions to his staff to be on the lookout for all offenders after that date. It being estimated that sufficient time has been given since the start of the year for all to have secured their 1936 plates.

Unionist View of Liberal Convention

The Calgary Albertan (Un-), discussing the proposed Liberal convention, rises as follows:

The general impression of men and women who supported Union Government is that its work is not completed, and that the union which existed before the end of the war will continue some time after the signing of peace.

This is not the time to sing hymns of hate, even against political opponents. This is a time when a Government should undertake the greatest problems ever facing this country without thought or concern for political entanglement.

Mr. J. H. Chamberlain, leader of the Liberals who in December, 1917, followed the lead of the Union and voted for Union Government, said:

Not Revolution.

Spartacans have broken through the serenity of the alleged dictatorship in Berlin, by taking to the streets and introducing some of the characteristics which ordinarily are associated with a genuine upheaval. Casualties, more or less numerous, have occurred, and the enemy's morale is in a way experiencing the effects of the distress afflicted upon the cities by the Zeppelin raids. But the revolution which he so heartily approved, the social justice, has not, as yet, been introduced.

operations among men, and be that the nation which had frightfulness as a weapon against civilians and honorable combatants is about to undergo a revolution of its own dastardliness. It is, however, not Germany.

... however, is not Germany. Although the rest of the country is little enough sign that the political formalities which have been the outstanding feature of the political changes is to be interrupted by an outbreak of unseemly disorder and bloodshed. It will be wise for the Allies to not count too much upon the fricas between the two factions in Berlin. The German people are not revolutionaries; they are essentially unexcitable and have an inborn respect for order. They have a shrewd understanding of the world, particularly in a monetary sense. The German people as a whole are, I think, safe to assume, are not going to get out of paying to the victims or their families; and they are keeping their heads cool and calculating the needs of the situation in a way that their opponents might not. If the turn of events should offer to them any way of opportunity at the flood, they are turning defeat into victory, wriggling out of punishment for their crime, they are solidly united in a "drive" to close the gap. The Berlin facade is only that.

FREE SPEECH AND LIBERTY
Mr. Asquith at Westminster, Nov.
"And here I come to what is perhaps the most important thing I to say. Don't you forget that the last four years we have been living—we, a free and in the best way a politically-minded nation—we have been living under abnormal conditions which must come to an end with cessation of war. I refer not only to the restrictions of personal liberty and freedom of movement, but also to the compulsory military service, for which I am responsible as much as any man. These things must come to an end (Cheers.) But I refer also to the patriotic restraint in criticism and defence which with very occasional exceptions has voluntarily observed both the parliament and the press. We must come back as a nation to our own

"There is no conceivable government which does not benefit by the existence of a free press. There is no conceivable house of commerce which would not be better off if it were not for the existence of the free press. There is no conceivable democracy, both at the state and national level, which would not be better off if it were not for the existence of the free press."

"Don't suppose," exclaimed Mr. Smith, "that you are not guilty, in reply to the prime minister's question, of an expression of impatience with opposition—which, he had said, meant a lack of confidence in the organized fault-finding and delay—by your suggestion that examination of the press should be substituted for parliamentarism?"

"You can delegate the function of criticism to a body of experts. The expert critics are the men whom democracy of this country have come to be their spokesmen in the House of Commons." It would be an evil day for parliament and for democracy that free stream of unrestrained debate at Westminster was to be checked, dammed up, and artistically restrained. His advice to Liberals—said nothing of personal questions which for him had no interest, and not exist—was to throw the weight of their party on the side of the patriotic and democratic policy.

UP IN TORONTO COURT.

Toronto, Jan. 10.—Rev. Ben Spence, charged in the police court today with a breach of the order-in-council in that he had copies of the temperance book, "The Parasite," in his possession, pleaded not guilty.

W. E. Rainey argued that the case had been disposed of before a higher court. An adjournment for one week was made.

after some hesitation, agreed to do so. During the flight the aviator said how he was enjoying it. "To tell truth," answered the Scot. "I wad rather be on the groun'." "Tut, tut," replied the flying man; "I'm just thinking of looping the loop." "Dae dae that!" cried the now very nervous Jock. "I've some sillier in my v pocket, an' I might lose it!"

I wish to say at once, that I make no reference whatsoever to government grants, made to the province as a whole. My remarks were confined to the grants made to the Public Schools of this city. The Minister's indignation has, therefore, no relation to statements made by myself. As a matter of fact the school situation from a provincial point was not discussed, only from a city point of view.

The Committee of Finance in September, 1918, prepared a report on the Edmonton Public School Board as a body "re Government Grant." The figures of which have not been controverted, extracts of which are as follows:

"The total cost of public school education (the first eight grades) for 1917 in the City of Edmonton, of clusive of debenture payments amounting, roughly, to one-third of this cost was $567,392. The total grant from the Government amounted to $12,041. The average attendance per year was 6,967. In other words, the costs of public school education for that year was $81.43 per pupil, of which the Government contributed $1.87 per pupil."

Now consider the following table and figures obtained from other western cities, and in relation to the Government grant:

Average Attendance	Grant	Total Grant per pupil
Schools 6867	$13,041	$ 1.8
Schools 741	5,735	7.7
Schools 2992	15,509	5.1
Schools 440	13,262	30.6
Schools 9715	81,457	4.3
Schools 1626	26,959	16.5
Schools 3998	63,174	15.8
Schools 587	31,116	18.9

In 1913, the total of all grades enrolled was 8,954; average attendance 574; (public and high schools).

of the total enrolment of all grade levels is $1,146; average attendance 1,707. We have accomplished in four years, if we have still the faith in our city, is to have reasonable to assume, history will repeat itself in the next few years and in place of an expenditure of $90,000.00 as at present, the million mark will soon be reached.

I, therefore, claim that I was fully justified in calling attention to a situation that requires an immediate remedy, and there can be no question that the remedy is to be found in substantial increase of Government ants. The citizens of Edmonton will watch with very great interest the conference called for the discussion of this vital matter.

Thanking you in advance and would very much like to see a copy of this letter will be forwarded to the Honorable Minister of Education,
Yours truly,
F. A. BEDDARD.

PANTHER WOMAN
NEXT PICTURE
FOR OLGA PETROVA

Fifth of Series of Big Stories Coming to Empress Theatre

The latest Petrova production, "The Panther Woman," fifth of the special features starring the celebrated Polish actress, to be shown at the Empress theatre for three days starting January 20, contains a myriad of realistic thrills in the type of dramatic vehicle that has characterized previous appearances of this emotional artist.

"The Panther Woman," which is released by the First National Exhibitors Circuit, is a picture version of the sensational story of the same name by the author, "Patience Sparhawk and Her Times."

The story depicts the battle for life of a woman unjustly accused of murder. Tremendous courtroom scenes have already interested fans in the production, leading naturally up to the spectacular climax in the death house at Sing Sing prison.

Particulate effort was put forth by Madame Petrova and Ralph Tracy, her director, to give the picture realistic touch to that portion of the film introducing the death house scene. An exact reproduction of the condemned cell was created at the Petrova studio, together with a faithful copy of the death chamber itself. So vividly has each detail been worked out in these scenes of "The Panther Woman," that the spectators can well imagine they are witnessing the real thing. An exact duplicate of the electric chair, together with the black mask and straps which are used, give an additional touch of realism to the drama.

NEW THEDA BARA
FILM IS COMING TO THE EMPRESS

Theda Bara has yet to reap in a play that has interest. In fact the reverse applies, for her very production that has been seen in Edmonton has been of outstanding merit. The same applies to the Empress attraction for the first three days of next week, "Under the Yoke," a story of the Philippines, of a Spanish girl's love for an army officer during the period when the United States was bringing order to the island.

The climax of the play is tremendous. It will serve as a comparison for future films to come. The little Spanish girl, made overnight into an Amazon by the responsibility for a thousand American lives that rest upon her, becomes the victim of a cruel and cold-blooded plot. She is induced to lend herself to a man that will compel her lover to betray the weakness of strength of a nation of United States soldiers. They are part of a regiment that went to the Philippine country in 1901, a time to teach the Philippines the virtues and glories of self-government, and left their homes bleaching in the shadows of the dice where they were gambled.

The plot, almost successful, is crushed. "Under the Yoke" will be found to be a superior production. Miss Bara is incomparable in an exciting role. J. Gordon Edwards, who has appeared in her most recent successes, has charge of the making of the film. While Adrian Johnson, who has written the scenario for several successful pictures, furnished the script from a story by the noted author and playwright, George Boneborough.

AN ALL-FEATURE BILL MAKES SPARKLING VAUDEVILLE SHOW
AT PANTAGES FOR NEXT WEEKStellar Attractions Are "The World Wide Review," Mixture of Dances and Singing, and a Unique Act, "The Golden Bird"—
Main Numbers Have Strong Supports

An all-feature show is secured in the Pantages theatre bill for next week. All the acts are of outstanding merit, they can hold down any position a manager might choose for them.

The show is headlined by a duo of stellar attractions—"The World Wide Review," a mixture of dances and singing, and "The Golden Bird," with Max Paul. The review is the latest output of the recently formed Moor-Nigley firm of producers. It is a tabloid Broadway dance and song revue. It is featured by the dancing and singing of the national sweep and airs of virtually the entire world.

The Dixie Four are a quartette from south of the Mason-Dixon line. They have a program of the very latest Broadway successes and are guaranteed of extraordinary cultural value. DeLora, Marcella and DeLora, a comedy acrobatic and tumbling presentation in full of "try" and "boom." The trio work well together and "go over" big.

The Golden Bird act is considered one of the most brilliant achievements of the day. A canny—of the ordinary domesticated kind—has been trained that it will accompany a violinist. The bird is a very beautiful creature. Its repertoire is not a limited one. It can play the scales of Chopin and a popular melody with an equal ease. And the bird keeps in perfect tune with his notes and in time with his measures.

Ned Norworth, Evelyn Waite and other "talk-and-sing" acts, which is bright, witty and useful. The show is a very good one, and is a very good picture to see.

BETTY'S CAKE

White Betty and Winnie's mother was away on a short visit, their grandmother came to look after things. How the children did enjoy the day, old lady! (And so would you if you'd known her). And what cake and pie she could make!

On Friday, she did her baking, and on the particular piece she baked two special, little cakes, one for Betty and one for Winnie—brown, round and full of raisins. Tummy Yummy!

"I'm going to keep some of mine for tomorrow," said Betty.

But Winnie ate every crumb of hers. They took part of her cake upstairs and put it in her doll's china closet, with the prettiest look on the door.

"I'll come and gobble it up while you're not looking," said Winnie—silly, wasn't she?

"No, I'm going to lock the door," said Betty. But it was only a pretense lock.

The next day Betty went to the china closet to look for her cake, and there—old Mother Hubbard, she found her cupboard was bare!

"Oh, how provoked she was! She ran as fast as she could downstairs, and found her little sister sitting on a haunch at (Grandmother's feet, trying to learn to sit."

"You horrid little pig!" cried Betty wrathfully. "You ate up my cake!"

"I didn't," replied Winnie, she shut her drooping lips plump, little hand.

"You didn't?" repeated Betty. "Then what did you do with it?"

"Nothing," said Winnie. "I didn't never touch your cake!"

Winnie began to cry. "You began to cry,"

cried Betty. "You began to cry,"

cried Betty. "You began to cry,"

cried Betty. "You began to cry,"

who likes cake!" said Winnie, tearfully.

"Didn't you say you were going to lock the door?"

Grandmother poked her glasses down from her forehead and said:

"Down she landed on the floor."

The china closet was quite a big one for a child. It had twelve small drawers with pink (pink) paper in it.

Just the way Mother's were arranged.

Grandmother began to take all the things out of the closet, and stuffed, with a most tremendous serious look on her face. She had just

TOYS AND USEFUL ARTICLES

THAT A BOY CAN MAKE.

BY FRANK I. SOLAR.

INSTRUCTOR, DEPT. OF MANUAL TRAINING, PUBLIC SCHOOLS OF DETROIT.

TURNING SAW

NOTE: AROUND CORNERS AT 8 Y.

The turning saw is a very handy tool to have in an equipment and as it is not a difficult job to make one, it is suggested that the boys and girls should make one for their own use.

The blades may be made from pieces of broom handle. The top of the broom handle is only rounded it would be best to use the two broom handles. If it happen to have a small iron in your shop the projections may be made in the iron, otherwise it can be made with a knife and the first making a saw cut all the way around the handle to cut it off.

After the handle is cut and the
